Effective June 1, 2007, food vendors and restaurants in San Francisco must use compostable or recyclable to-go containers. Polystyrene foam (Styrofoam™) disposable food service ware can no longer be used for food prepared in San Francisco.

Striving for Zero Waste:

The City and County of San Francisco and Carnaval San Francisco believe achieving zero waste is possible. In San Francisco, over half of what still goes in the landfill bins can be recycled in the blue bin or composted in the green bin. Carnaval San Francisco and the City and County of San Francisco continue to promote best practices, including reducing, reusing, recycling and composting.

Starting in 2020, Carnaval will required that:

1. No styrofoam, #6 PS cups, aluminum foil, plastic bags, or non-compostable containers are used in the festival;

2. Exclusively certified compostable utensils and food service ware be used--avoid products labeled "biodegradable," for those do not compost; and
3. Food be served on paper plates, or in compostable containers, not in plastic or styrofoam clamshells, according to the San Francisco's Zero Waste Policy.

I have read and agree to the "Requirements of San Francisco's Food Service Ware Ordinance (Failure to comply will result in deduction of cleaning deposit fee) [redacted] (initial)
